WILTSE SCATTERS HITS

Six Hits, One Pass and One Error, Give Victory to Home Team.

New York, N. Y., July 27.—Six hits, one pass and one error, bunched in the sixth inning, to-day, gave New York six runs and victory over Philadelphia, 6 to 2. Foxen, up to the sixth, had the locals at his mercy. Wiltse, while hit freely, was a past-master at the art of scattering the safeties made off him. Umpire Johnstone sent Bates off the field in the first inning for arguing over a decision. The score:

*Batted for Walsh in seventh. Score by innings:

The Tigers came back twice in the same place. They soaked the Colts in the neck, in fact, and there was no help forthcoming. Walter Doane did the work on the defensive portion of the battle ground, and the Tiger batters did the rest. Doane seemed to be as good as when he was last seen in the Virginia League, and there was no gainsaying him yesterday.

Even at that, Verbout worked like a clock, except in one small inning. One large inning, rather. At the first jump out of the box the Tigers began to bite, and before the Colts or Verbout could dope out the situation properly, there were three runs on the Tiger scoreboard, and to all intents.

I was mighty lucky, incidentally, that Baker was not hurt worse than he was exercised. The same that the intents is the same that the same was mighty lucky, incidentally, that Baker was not hurt worse than he Verbout could dope out the situation is properly, there were three runs on the properly, there were three runs on the arrive score of a course, in the lucky seventh Roanoke pulled in another run, but that wasn't really necessary, and was merely done to show what the Tigers could do when properly werked up.

All three winners in the league yesterday, the seventh Roanoke pulled in another run, but that wasn't really necessary, and was merely done to show what the Tigers could do when properly werked up.

All three winners in the league yesterday, the second of the city has been done to show what the total part of the same with the secone of 4 to 2, and Richmond lost by the secre of 4 to 2, and Richmond lost by the secre of 4 to 0. The last day of the away from home series didn't do Richmond any good, either.

Petersburg is here this afternoon, in spite of the reports that Steve Griffin and his huskies will play. The performance will be doubly interesting, because there will be large wads of the petersburg people here to see the fun. in the final bracket.

The first two sets of the Tyler-Robb match was close and interesting. Tyler led at 4.1 in the first set, when his opponent braced and ran out five straight games. In the second set, Robb was leading at 3-1, 4-2 and 5-4, when Tyler tightened, and captured the necessary game. Robb failed to win a single game in the deciding set. The stamina was lacking, and Tyler won easily.

YES, B. BRYAN WAS DEFEATED

"It gives me absolutely no joy or glee, alas alack, to say, anent the Grent Hig Go, that James J. Jeffries can't come back." In words of such ligubrious tone, with tear-dimmed eyes and long-draws face. Mike Murphy made his classic moan in re "Hope of the white skinned race." Mike Murphy's classic moan was true, J. Jeffries couldn't stand the gaff and little Artha psached him blue and coyly said "Yass 'tis to laff." So gods we worship topple down, so fair illusions fade and die, romance assumes the role of clown, and wherefores merely answer "Why." Before the neocomian age, Bill Bryan pranced upon the stump and charmed the laborer and sage and made the other runner hump. He sang the Common Pepul's song and played the scale on farm's rights, he guaranteed to right each wrong, and made the wealthy sit up nights. He was the idol of the land, the peerless one without reproach, he was the topping poker hand whenever 'twas a pot to broach. And now, ye gods take me to jall, please drown me in a babbling brook, the Peerless one has caught the veil, Bill Bryan's gone and got the hook,
